

Foster Parent College: Safe Parenting

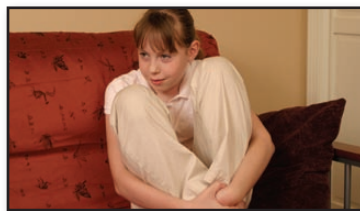

Knowing the best way to handle persistent behavior problems can leave even the most experienced and dedicated parents at a loss; sometimes, doing everything right still turns out all wrong. In this class, a caseworker and a group of resource parents discuss some causes for persistent difficult behavior as well as safe parenting strategies.

Topics covered include the safety plan, actual and developmental age, trauma history, the treatment plan, state regulations, and discipline that is sensitive to the traumas and insecurities of the individual child.

Use For:

- Foster, adoptive and kinship parents
- Group trainings
